

Astronaut Tim Peake touches down in Edinburgh

At the Usher Hall earlier this week the audience was intrigued by two astronauts recently returned from the ISS

Freshly back from 6 month long mission on board the International Space Station, British ESA astronaut Tim Peake and his NASA crewmate Tim Kopra visit Edinburgh's Usher Hall on 17 October to share their stories of living and working on the ISS.

This event was presented by the Edinburgh International Science Festival in partnership with European Space Agency and UK Space Agency.

Photos © Eoin Carey