

A string quartet who will perform a house concert for you

American house-concert start up, Groupmuse, will bring genre-spanning chamber music to your own front room with echo chamber.

Echo chamber represent a new generation of classical musicians, violinists Stephen Bradshaw, Beka Reid and Sophia Dignam along with cellist Chris Terepin, and all are inspired by the internet effect on culture.

The brainchild of artistic director leoemercer, this classical offering is music on demand with a difference.

leoemercer said: "We all live in echo chambers. Our mission is to create mesmerising concerts that let you come out of yours."

Echo chamber will play you anything from Schubert to Kanye West and, aiming to disrupt, they will curate diverse unexpected combinations of music.

The tour will begin in Edinburgh on 5 March 2017.

Book your spot here.