

Gridiron – Warner headlines star-studded bill as NFL touches down in Edinburgh

NFL UK Live tour touch down in Edinburgh this April and will bring some big names with them.

They include former Amsterdam Admirals quarter back Kurt Warner who starred in the NFL Europe League which also featured the Scottish Claymores.

Warner, now aged 45, lead the Europe League in touchdowns and passing yards and he marched on to become a Super Bowl champion, NFL Hall of Famer and NFL Network analyst.

Accompanying him will be Cleveland Browns' star player Danny Shelton and retired Baltimore Ravens' player and NFL Network analyst Steve Smith Sr.

Fans will be able to join Sky Sports' Neil Reynolds and journalist Peter King on Thursday 13 April at the Edinburgh International Conference Centre for an evening of live Q&A.

This will be the first NFL UK Live tour where a decision has been made to charge a small £7 fee with all proceeds (except a £1 booking fee) going to the Youth Sport Trust to help grow American football in the UK.

This decision has been made as traditionally these events have been heavily oversubscribed and many confirmed fans have not attended.

As a result, other passionate fans have been unable to participate in these events. Tickets are available here on a first-come, first-served basis.