Television star Phillip Schofield will be heading to Edinburgh at the end of April with the hit concert tour The Knights of Music.

Schofield, who currently presents ITV's This Morning, previously starred in Joseph and the Amazing Technicolour Dreamcoat at the London Palladium, as well as the UK tour of Dr Doolittle.

The Knights of Music, at the capital city's Playhouse on Friday 28th April, celebrates the legendary Knights and Dames of the entertainment industry who have transformed the face of music, film and theatre throughout the ages. The Knights include Sir Elton John, Lord Andrew Lloyd-Webber, Sir Cliff Richard, Dame Shirley Bassey, Sir Paul McCartney and The Beatles, Sir Cameron Mackintosh, Sir Tim Rice, Sir Mick Jagger, Sir Bob Geldof, Bono, and the newly knighted Sir Rod Stewart.

Last year's tour saw Phillip dust off his dream coat after a 17-year hiatus and showcase his spectacular singing range, performing some of the greatest hits from Joseph and his Amazing Technicolour Dream coat.

Joining Phillip on stage and helping to bring the best of British to life will be a vibrant cast of West end performers and a live band.

Musical numbers will include: 'I'm still standing', 'Rocket Man' (Elton John) 'Twist and Shout', 'Hey Jude' (The Beatles) 'I Dreamed a Dream' (Les Miserables) 'Do you want to dance' (Cliff Richard) 'It's not unusual' (Tom Jones) 'Close Every Door' (Joseph) 'Satisfaction' (Mick Jagger) and 'Maggie May' (Rod Stewart) to name just a few.

Schofield, said: "It was such an incredible opportunity to share the stage with the Knights of Music cast last year, and perform the songs that we all know and love. I cannot wait to get back on stage, resurrect the dream coat once again, and warm up the vocal chords – this show is a true celebration and one not to be missed!"
