

Fishing – Cook and Dewar go forward to national Sierra Pairs final

Glorious Glencorse, host venue for one of the heats of the Sierra Pairs. Picture by Nigel Duncan Media

Owen Cook and Brian Dewar won a heat of the nationwide Sierra Pairs competition at Glencorse Reservoir.

They collected an amazing weight of 36lbs 12oz on a day when the fishing was first class.

In second place from Shetland, were Toni Li and John Lawson who bagged 35lbs 2oz.

And, in third place, were Alan McLachlan and Murry Hunter with a bag weight of 33lbs.

The water, in the Pentland Hills, was packed for the event and first to get the limit were Jock Kettles and Mike Connet.

They weighed in bang on 11am with a great catch of 29lbs 14oz, but, as the day went on and other teams raced to get in, heavier fish were caught.

Every boat apart from one had a bag limit and big thanks to all the guys for taking part and Phil Dixon for making this another great day at Glencorse Reservoir.