

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 – More Gefilte Fish & Chips

Our Pick of Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 – More Gefilte Fish and Chips

'If Bunuel had been Jewish, born in Leeds and been an admirer of Jake Thackray, this is what he might have sounded like'
(Alan Bennett)

Theatre maker, songwriter, producer, broadcaster, composer Daniel Cainer returns to Edinburgh after sell-out successes on both sides of the Atlantic.

More Gefilte Fish and Chips offers second helpings of Cainer's deeply moving, smart and funny story-songs, plus some brand new additions to the menu. Whether you're Jewish or not, you'll love these tall tales of family and folklore, raunchy rabbis and racy relations from this Fringe favourite.

More Gefilte Fish and Chips, Underbelly, George Square, Wee Coe (Venue 300) | Previews 2-4 Aug | 5-28 August | 12:00–13:00
tickets £6.50-£10 (concessions £9)

Tickets here