

Meadows Festival dodged the rain today

Thousands of people visited The Meadows Festival over the weekend. The volunteer-run event offers something for all the family with eats, drinks and music as well as bric a brac, some political stalls and a children's area.

One section of the Meadows was reserved for some really scary looking rides!

Despite some grey clouds it did not actually rain today!

We spotted the lovely Gordon Millar of ScotStreetStyle with Louise
