

Big Hearts Partners With McClure Solicitors to Provide 'Free Wills for Charity'

Big Hearts Community Trust have revealed a new fundraising partnership with McClure Solicitors, which will allow anyone connected with Heart of Midlothian Football Club's official charity partner to get a professional will service free of charge.

Every adult should have a will stating who will receive their assets and where they will end up. Without this legal document, the law decides and it usually takes longer and cost more. McClure Solicitors can prepare your will free of charge – all we ask is that you consider making a donation to Charity in return for the service.

By joining McClure Solicitors' successful 'Free Will for Charity' scheme – a unique business model which has already raised over £15,000,000 in 2016 alone for charities in the UK, Big Hearts will be helping supporters plan for their future with the opportunity to make a voluntary donation to support Big Hearts' work in the community.

Craig Wilson, Big Hearts Interim General Manager said:

''This is a new way for Big Hearts to raise funds and we are delighted to do so in partnership with McClure Solicitors, who are already supporting many other charities in Scotland.''

''Offering a 'Free will for charity' to our community is a simple and straight forward way to support Big Hearts whilst accessing a professional service to plan for the future, something that is essential for any family. We hope it will benefit many who may have not considered it otherwise.''

More information about Big Hearts Community Trust and how you can get involved is available here.