

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 – The Intimate Strangers: Mister Bond

The Intimate Strangers: Mister Bond is a critically-acclaimed dark, absurd sketch comedy show with a grand James Bond finale.

Witness characters/situations like a woman obsessed with dogs and a game of Simon Says gone horribly wrong.

The show is a mix of fast-paced sketches hinging around the character of 'Matt' wanting to achieve his ultimate dream of being the next James Bond.

Material from the show has previously been heard on BBC Radio 4.

Writer-Performer Matthew Radway is a graduate of the Channel 4/NFTS Comedy Writing & Producing Course and has had his work performed at the Bristol Old Vic Theatre as well as internationally. His short film Satan's Parish toured international film festivals and is now being developed into a feature film.

Outside of The Intimate Strangers he has developed a sitcom pilot with comedian Rachel Parris.

Performer James Taylor Thomas' recent comedy credits include Midnight Beast: Valentines Night on Sky Arts and a supporting role in Jack & Dean of All Trades Series 1. He is also appearing in Midnight Beast's Edinburgh show this year.

Previous shows have received 4 star reviews from ThreeWeeks, Edfringe Review and Remotegoat who called The Intimate Strangers “a thing of beauty, smart, funny and original”.

Tickets here.

THE INTIMATE STRANGERS: MISTER BOND | 16:05 (50min) | Aug 4-5, 7-19, 21-26 | The Space @ Jury's Inn (Venue 260) | 43 Jeffrey Street, EH1 1DH

