

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 – The Stuntman

The Debut Solo Show Neighbours' Pinhead

Featuring real on-stage stunts – it's totally bananas!

Nathan Lang (Pinhead from Neighbours) brings his debut solo show to the Edinburgh Fringe: The absurd tale of The Stuntman, told through clowning, characters, mime, sketches, physical comedy and real onstage stunts. It's totally bananas!

MORE ABOUT NATHAN LANG

Nathan Lang (born Nathan Godkin in Melbourne) played Pinhead on Australian soap Neighbours (1998-2000), as well as guest parts on many Aussie TV shows, before relocating to the UK and marrying Scottish actor Shelley Lang (River City). In 2009 he reunited with Neighbours star Mark Little (Joe Mangel) in a London fringe theatre production of Cosi. In clowning he has trained with John Wright, Spymonkey, Doctor Brown and Nola Rae. He is also highly skilled in stand-up, sketch, improvisation and Shakespeare.

Nathan is the host of London's beloved alternative comedy night Lost Cabaret, co-founder of international clown theatre company Farce Forward, and half of sketch comedy duo Jon & Nath (Jon & Nath Like To Party also at Edinburgh Fringe).

He will soon be seen in Yorgos Lanthimos' (The Lobster) highly anticipated feature film The Favourite (2018) with Olivia Colman, Rachel Weisz and Emma Stone.
