

Hearts Close in on 14,000 Season Ticket Sales

Hearts have announced they are closing in on their target of selling 14,000 season tickets. The club are just 300 short of last year's record-breaking figure and less than 500 short of the target set for season 2017/18.

The new main stand has sold 80% of available seats and there are less than 200 premium seats available.

Hearts owner and Chief Executive, Ann Budge, paid tribute to the loyalty of the Maroon Army, particularly given the way last season ended and the faltering start made to this campaign.

"Everyone at the club is hugely grateful for the continued devotion shown by of our fans. The new stand will create a venue that the whole city can be proud of and we urge all of those considering a season ticket to join us in creating an amazing atmosphere for every match"

"Thanks also, to all those who have taken advantage of our supporter schemes. They offer real value for money and we encourage all fans, if their circumstances allow, to join up as soon as they can – these offer real and significant savings and the additional funds raised are vital to help us build a stand that our fans deserve".
