

Edinburgh Festival Fringe 2017 – Hero

Live illustration to draw in families at new free theatre show at Edinburgh Festival Fringe.

Hero, a new family show which uses live illustration to share a fantastical adventure story tackling depression, premieres at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe this August.

Heroes Theatre's new production combines a fully scored audiobook adventure with colourful artwork. Georgie Mac paints brilliant characters and scenes from a new story in front of audiences.

✘ Hero is an uplifting show that uses fantasy to address issues about anxiety, depression and learning to live with sad thoughts. The show follows the adventures of Cavalier, a young boy plagued by nightmares, who lives at sea on a ship that never moves. Hero celebrates creativity and storytelling as a method of confronting difficult emotions.

Hero features a newly composed score by singer/songwriter Ross Clark, previously of Three Blind Wolves who recently toured China with children's theatre company Frozen Charlotte.

Hero is the second collaboration between artist/performer Georgie Mac and director/writer Eve Nicol. The pair previously unleashed their children's show The Undiscovered Creature at Imagine and Belladrum festivals in 2016.

Georgie Mac, creator and performer of Hero said : "I'm excited to share my love of drawing with audiences. There's something special about sharing a fantasy story that tackles tricky human emotions in such an imaginative way. Hero makes plenty of room for emotional reflection, without shirking on creative expression, and I can't wait to bring it to a family audience at the Edinburgh Festival Fringe."

Hero plays as part of PBH Free Fringe for the duration of the Edinburgh Festival Fringe.

Heroes Theatre are a Glasgow-based company who showcase the words of the greatest modern playwrights and bold new voices to explore the dark and difficult parts of being human.
