

Women's basketball – Rosanna joins Pride with high hopes

✖ Caledonia Pride have signed American-born guard Rosanna Reynolds who joins the club from the Detroit Titans in Division 1 of the Women's NCAA.

There she was ranked first in assists and third in scoring and coach

Bart Sengers said: "Rosanna will be a player that brings the team more experience and she can help us out in many ways.

"She can run the point-guard for us and has a knack for finding her teammates when they are open.

"I believe we have found an intelligent player who compliments our other players very well."

She said: "I have heard nothing but positive things about the players, coaching staff and the programme and I look forward to playing with them this season."

Pride will begin their season at home on Saturday 7 October when they welcome defending champions Nottingham Wildcats to the University of Edinburgh.
