

Hibs fans vote on Simon Murray's goal celebrations

Marathonbet's Goal Celebration Makeover is back for another season and the betting company has asked fans to decide how Hibs' striker Simon Murray should mark his next goal.

Steven Whittaker and Danny Swanson recently joined the striker for a day of celebrations at East Mains and now it's up to the supporters to pick their favourite celebration for Murray to perform after netting his next goal from a shortlist of three.

As seen in the video, they are: Girls Don't Like Boys – Murray Me – Simon Says

Fans can vote on social media for their favourite celebration between Sunday, September 24th to midnight on Wednesday, September 27th.

Marathonbet will donate £500 to the Hibernian Community Foundation every time he performs the celebration during a match after scoring.

Last year supporters voted to re-vamp Grant Holt's celebration with the popular 'Incredible Holt' effort.

Holt went on to score and perform his new antics against Hearts in the cup, as well as in league games against the likes of St Mirren and Raith with the celebration becoming a cult classic that raised £2,500 for charity.

With fixtures against Celtic and Aberdeen after voting closes, Murray could be performing his new favourite celebration as soon as next month.