The Motorpoint Arena, Nottingham, will host the two-day event on Saturday 7 and Sunday 8 April.

Tony Smith, the Elite League's chairman, said: "It is a brilliant opportunity for fans from across the league to come together to mark the end of the hockey season in style.

"There is a real party atmosphere every year and, given how exciting the 2017/18 campaign has already been, I have no doubt that the 2018 play-off final weekend will be bigger and better than ever."

The semi-finals are on Saturday at 1pm and 5pm respectively with the Bronze Medal game (face-off 12 noon) and Grand Final (face-off 4pm) on Sunday.
