

Bingo! comes to Edinburgh

Brand new Musical comedy starts Scottish Tour at Assembly Hall in The Capital

Bingo! presented by Grid Iron Theatre Company and Stellar Quines Theatre Company, is a new musical comedy focusing on lives of six characters and one fateful night at the bingo.

With cracking original songs, a lot of banter and cheeky humour, Bingo! is co-written by Anita Vettesse & Johnny McKnight, with music by Alan Penman and directed by Stellar Quines' Artistic Director Jemima Levick.

Cast of Bingo! includes stars of British stages and television such as Louise McCarthy (Daniella) of BBC's Scot Squad and Two Doors Down, Wendy Seager (Mary) who played Susan in Killing me Softly and featured in Still Game, Barbara Rafferty (Joanna), star of River City, Brave New World, Rab C Nesbitt and The Last King of Scotland film, Jo Freer (Ruth) who starred in Dundee Rep's Sunshine on Leith as well as River City, Darren Brownlie (Donny) known from Dundee Rep's Witness for the Prosecution and BBC Scotland's Scot Squad as well as Tron Theatre's pantomime and Jane McCarry (Betty), Still Game's Isa and Scottish pantomime star who also played Dolly in Tony Roper's The Steamie and featured in Rab C Nesbitt.

Bingo! reflects the current state of affairs for many people living in the UK, for whom a visit to a bingo hall is both a night out and a financial plan. Brought to Scottish stages by two award-winning Edinburgh-based theatre companies: site-responsive specialists Grid Iron and Stellar Quines, who celebrate the diversity of women and girls, Bingo! promises to be a show that entertains and provokes.

Bingo! receives its world premiere at Assembly Hall in Edinburgh. Bingo! tours Scotland in March and April 2018 to venues around Scotland, including Stirling, Ayr, Musselburgh, Glasgow and Inverness.