

Power of Food Festival – sign up for 2018 now

The Power of Food Festival takes place on 16 & 17 June 2018 and you can now register your community food garden or offer to help.

This is a weekend event when all the community food gardens in Edinburgh are invited to throw open their gates and invite people in to hear the story behind them.

By doing this the festival inspires people to grow their own food and raises awareness of community food growing in the city.

You are also invited to apply if you wish to provide free entertainment in any of the gardens.

You can read the report below all about the 2017 festival.

As well as a suite of lovely videos the festival has launched a new podcast series and you can listen to the first featuring Ewan Aitken here.
