

Gary Barlow and KT Tunstall at Edinburgh Playhouse

Next Monday and Tuesday, 16 and 17 April 2018, Gary Barlow is performing at The Playhouse and he will be supported by none other than KT Tunstall.

When The Edinburgh Reporter spoke to her in New York, she told us that she really had no idea if she would sing alongside Gary, but that she would be performing her own catalogue of songs, perhaps including some from the new album out later this year.

Now will she wear that lovely outfit that she wore for the NYC Tartan Week Parade....?

The UK's largest working non-sporting theatre – in terms of audience capacity – is the Edinburgh Playhouse.

Now owned by the Ambassador Theatre Group, the Playhouse opened as a cinema in Edinburgh's Greenside Place in 1929.

In recent years it has become one of Scotland's leading venues for variety shows and musicals. It is one of the main venues for both the Edinburgh International Festival and Edinburgh Festival Fringe.
