

Missing man traced safe and well

Missing man Callum Crichton has been traced safe and well following a public appeal from police.

The 36-year-old was last seen in Morton Street, Joppa around 4.30pm on Monday afternoon.

A spokesperson from Police Scotland said: "Police in Edinburgh are happy to confirm that Callum Crichton, missing from Joppa since Monday was traced safe and well this evening Tuesday 10 April.

"Officers wish to thank the media and public for their assistance with this appeal."