

Police trying to trace woman who came to aid of crash victims

Maybury Road following a fatal late night collision on 25 May 2018 Photo © Thomas Brown

Police investigating the fatal road collision at the Maybury Roundabout have identified a further witness they wish to trace.

The investigation recently established that a small hatchback vehicle travelled north from the Maybury Roundabout, towards Barnton, just before to the collision occurred, and the occupants may have vital information. These individuals have yet to be traced and are asked to come forward.

Eye-witness statements now confirm that a woman, who was not involved in the collision, attended at the scene after the incident and administered medical assistance to those within the BMW X5.

It is believed this woman was a doctor or health professional and she is urged to contact police immediately.

She is described as being white with blonde hair.

Officers would also like to thank the public for their response to this inquiry, with numerous people having got in touch with various pieces of information that are all being progressed.

Detective Inspector Graham Grant said: "The woman who came to the aid of the injured family in the BMW was not in any way involved in the collision, but obviously saw the aftermath and provided vital assistance.

"We would like to speak to this individual as a matter of urgency and would ask she make contact with us.

"The public have been absolutely incredible in coming forward with information to assist our investigation. Since releasing the registration number that was on the stolen Audi A3, we have received numerous calls from people having seen a vehicle with this plate.

"I'd like to reassure our communities that the vehicle currently displaying this registration number is the legitimate vehicle. The stolen Audi, which we recovered in Cowdenbeath, was using cloned plates at the time and what we remain keen to establish is the movements of this car between 17th April and 25th May.

"If you believe you have any relevant information then please come forward."

Those with information can contact Corstorphine CID via 101 and quote incident 108 of the 25th April or make an anonymous report to the charity Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.