Cullen Property adds New Business expertise to investment team

Edinburgh residential property investment and lettings specialist Cullen Property has appointed Mhairi-Clare Galletta as its New Business Executive.

The newly created position further strengthens the company's team of residential property investment and letting specialists. It follows a period of growth across the industry in Scotland and Edinburgh in particular that has seen Cullen Property expand the company's portfolio of managed properties as well as its teams.

Mhairi-Clare will focus on advising landlords and property investors on new investment opportunities in the capital as well as advising current clients on how to generate the best possible return on their existing properties.

Cullen Property Managing Director Steve Coyle said: “We’re delighted that Mhairi-Clare has joined our new business and investment team. As our portfolio of properties has grown considerably over the past few years, this is the perfect time to expand our team.

“Mhairi-Clare’s knowledge of the city combined with her experience in the residential property industry will make her an invaluable asset to our team.”

An Edinburgh native, Mhairi-Clare is looking forward to the challenges of the job: “Delivering quality advice and service to property investors and landlords is my passion, which I hope I can share with the team and our clients.

“Watching a property transform from something fairly rundown into something extraordinary is one of my favourite parts of the job, and having the opportunity to help Cullen Property clients choose the perfect investment is very exciting.”

Cullen Property specialises in HMO property investment and is one of Edinburgh’s leading student letting agents, currently managing circa 400 properties in Edinburgh including 200+ HMO properties. The Cullen Property team can source, acquire and transform a dated spacious Edinburgh property into a modern HMO licensed accommodation in prime city centre locations.
