

Hibs support campaign to increase number of organ donors

Hibs are supporting the Scottish Government's most recent campaign to increase the amount of organ donors within the country promoting the message – sporty ones, wrinkly ones, lean ones – everybody can save a life.

People from across Scotland are being urged to join the NHS Organ Donor Register to give hope to the 550 people still waiting for an organ transplant.

Although generous Scots have already shown their support for organ donation, with over half the nation already on the Register – We Need Everybody to continue to make a difference.

With one person dying every day in the UK waiting on an organ transplant, the more people that join, the more lives that can be saved.
