

Join in the adventure when Scrambles reopens

What do you do if you are climbing the walls when Christmas is over and looking for something to entertain the kids? Let them burn off their excess energy and climb the walls at Scrambles soft play at EICA: Ratho, which reopens to the public on 3 January 2019 after a major refurbishment.

With brand new frames for babies, toddlers and juniors, suitable for 0-10 years old, join in the adventure with Scrambles' new hero character, Skye and her mountain friends, owl and stag, who are never happier than when they recruit new explorers on their adventures.

Managed by friendly, caring staff, Scrambles has a fresh, new look and layout with extended seating and a new café downstairs with a capacity of 130 persons. Enjoy a 'hug in a mug' and a tray bake or scone and other healthy snacks and drinks, whilst your children explore, swing, climb and slide away their excess energy.

Scrambles' soft play is open from 9:00-17:00 hrs daily (although there will be a later start time of 9:30 on 3 January 2019 due to a media-call) and prices vary depending on age and play-length.

Scrambles is located at: Edinburgh's International Climbing Arena, Ratho, South Platt Hill, Newbridge EH28 8AA – Telephone 0131 333 6333 / info.ratho@edinburghleisure.co.uk
