

Woman charged with crimes of dishonesty

Police have arrested and charged a woman in connection with dishonesty offences in the west of the city.

Officers were called following reports of concern of a woman posing as a carer visiting three addresses in the Corstorphine and Clermiston areas between 12th January and 28th January.

The 39-year-old woman was due to appear at Edinburgh Sheriff Court today (Wednesday 30 January).

Detective Inspector Bob Campbell from the Community Investigation Unit said: "These have been distressing incidents for the victims and I'd like to thank the local community for their assistance and diligence in coming forward to report this.

"We are committed to tackling all crimes of dishonestly and anyone with concerns of suspicious behaviour around their home, or that of a family member or friend, should contact us as soon as possible."
