

The Building Company – now in the capital

A father and son behind some of Perthshire's finest lodge parks have launched a landscaping company, and they're ready to take on the gardens, roofs and driveways of homes in the Capital!

The Building Company, run by William Stewart of Stewarts Leisure Parks, about to launch a fabulous new leisure retreat in St Andrews, brings together a range of skilled tradesmen specialising in remodelling gardens and driveways, building walls and patios, laying gravel and turf, tree felling and topping, along with all types of fencing – a one stop shop for all your outside areas.

Reliability and great pricing are at the heart of the firm, which is also happy to provide free quotations.

“We’re covering the Capital, the Lothians, Fife and Perthshire with this new company,” said William Stewart. “We’ve made a huge impression in the competitive lodge sector, where we ensure a craftsman finish to every lodge, with driveways large enough to house two cars, and some parks featuring stone steps and patios. We’re therefore confident of impressing homeowners who have jobs they would like completed for Spring. They can be sure of our best attention, as we’re used to meeting deadlines and completing jobs to everyone’s full satisfaction.”

“We also offer a full guarantee with every job,” said William.
