

Travel – head north to a very special house this spring

Belmont House in Unst, Shetland – the UK's most northerly island, and a haven for seabirds and wildlife – has launched a special two night self catering short break rate in April and May.

This is priced at just £650, with an optional third night able to be added for an extra £100. The stunning, fully restored Georgian Mansion House sleeps up to thirteen people, so is great value for a walking, birdwatching or heritage group who want to stay in the one unique location together.

For that you would have full access to all of this truly unforgettable property's perfectly proportioned Georgian rooms.

Book before the end of April.

Check out the website for availability and contact bookings@belmontunst.co.uk. There are direct flights by Loganair from Edinburgh Airport

