

Scottish Chamber Orchestra wants to hear from young people

The Scottish Chamber Orchestra is one of Scotland's five national performing companies. It is made up of 37 talented musicians and has recently appointed a new principal conductor.

Dvorak's New World by Scottish Chamber Orchestra, Usher Hall, Edinburgh, 22/03/2018: Photo for Scottish Chamber Orchestra by Colin Hattersley Photography

The Scottish Chamber Orchestra puts on regular concerts based on a range of classical music repertoire. Their aim is to provide opportunities for as many people as possible across Scotland to hear and get involved with live orchestral music.

The Scottish Chamber Orchestra is reviewing how it engages with its audiences.

As part of this, they're doing some research into what people aged 16-25 think about the orchestra. They'd love to hear what you have to say, whether you are a regular concert attender or have never heard of the Scottish Chamber Orchestra before.

Take a moment to complete this survey and you could win tickets for you and a friend to see an SCO concert!

Scottish Chamber Orchestra – Hermitage Academy, Helensburgh.
Photo Fraser Band