

Coop will celebrate a festival of farming at the Royal Highland Show

The Co-op is bringing its Festival of Farming to the Royal Highland Show this week (20 – 23 June), giving visitors the opportunity to enjoy a barbecue, strawberry milk, children's games and have their photo taken in the farming photo booth.

Alongside a live DJ, the Festival will also highlight Co-op's commitment to Scottish farming and Scottish food, as well its dedication to sustainable farming.

Mark Birchall, Senior Agricultural Development Manager at Co-op, said: "A visit to our stand will be great fun for all the family, with lots of games, giveaways and treats to keep everyone happy. This year the Co-op is taking pop up stores to a number of big music festivals, so we're bringing the festival feeling to the Royal Highland show with a farming focus."
