“BEE A BEEKEEPER” THIS CHRISTMAS!

Courses and bee adoption available from individuals and businesses this festive season

For an ethical gift this Christmas which will help the environment, why not consider beekeeping or bee adoption from Webster Honey?

With bees being responsible for pollinating 90% of the world's crops, and with climate change affecting their survival rates, safeguarding bees future has never been more important!

Webster Honey, which sells its organic honey and carries out educational engagement with schools and nurseries all over Scotland, teaching youngsters all about the importance of bees to the eco system, has taken a further step by offering beekeeping courses to the public at its Scotlandwell beekeeping school.

Gift experience vouchers, valid for a full twelve months, and from just £45 to £280, depending on how many hours tuition is sought, can be purchased at <https://www.websterhoney.com/honey-workshops/#about>

The fun and interactive workshop sessions see participants suited and booted in bee suits, and given expert tuition by Webster Honey's resident beekeeper, Meik Molitor.

All classes include refreshments and a special Beekeeping Certificate.
