Edinburgh World Heritage -Black History Month lecture

"All in a Blaze"

Last year's 'Strike for Freedom' exhibition at the National Library of Scotland brought to the public's attention for the first time the story of anti-slavery campaigner Frederick Douglass and the time he spent in Edinburgh.

The curator of the exhibition, Professor Celeste-Marie Bernier, will give the Black History Month lecture this year for Edinburgh World Heritage on the little-known story of 19th-century African American authors and activists who had links to the city.

6.00pm Tuesday 29 October 2019 at Auditorium, Carrubbers Centre, 65 High Street.

There will be a members-only drinks reception afterwards so if you would like to attend as a member of the conservation body, get the discount and be invited to other events then sign up online $\underline{\text{here}}\,.$