Ah yes they’re back. Allan Stewart, Andy Gray and Grant Stott will get them rolling in the aisles this winter with the biggest panto in Scotland.

Gillian Parkhouse who is performing in this year’s panto at the King’s, Goldilocks and the Three Bears PHOTO Greg Macvean Allan Stewart is celebrating the 30th anniversary of his first panto appearance at the King’s. Then he was a bad robber in Babes in the Wood, but now he has played a dame more times than anyone else at the King’s.

Andy Gray had a year off last year due to illness and we are thrilled that he is back as the Ringmaster. And Grant Stott is yet again playing the baddie, catching Allan up as this is his 26th year in panto land.

Jordan Young has appeared in River City alongside Andy for over six years – and plays PC Jack McLaren in Scot Squad. Gillian Parkhouse was magnificent last year in Cinderella and can be seen in Judy on the big screen.
