

PLAY DAYS at The Festival Theatre – half-term kids-a-go go

PLAY DAYS at Festival Theatre Edinburgh

Monday 14 -Wednesday 16 October 2019, 11.00am-4.00pm

All new workshops at the Festival Theatre for 8-13 year olds in the October half-term break.

Get along and try something new at the Festival Theatre Play Days and get hands on experience of Drama, Dance and Film.

Kids! Just typical...

Play Day: Drama

Monday 14 October, 11am-4pm, Empire Rooms at the Festival Theatre. The Drama Day will explore the themes of secrets and stories. Delve in, devise and create mini performances working with a range of artists with opportunities to make props and costumes.

Play Day: Dance

Tuesday 15 October, 11am-4pm, Empire Rooms at the Festival Theatre. Dance Day will explore space and time, working with a range of artists to co-create original works and mini performances, learn new dances and get stuck in!

Play Day: Film

Wednesday 16 October, 11am-4pm, Empire Rooms at the Festival Theatre. Film Day will explore heroes and humour. Get crafting at the cutting-edge! Create a short film working with a range of artists to co-create original works, with opportunities to make props and costumes.

No experience is necessary, and everyone is welcome.

All sessions for 8-13 year olds. Lunch included within session.

Cost: £2.50 for first child, additional children £2 each. Parents welcome to stay or drop off children and collect at end of session.

Play Days are part of the Learning & Participation programme at Capital Theatres, where everyone is encouraged to get-along and take part.

Festival Theatre's approach to creating inspiring projects is to put people at the heart of what they do, on home-turf but also at locations across the city, in hospitals, care homes, schools and community centres. The programme is rooted in the belief that performance and the creative arts can make a real difference to people's lives and can help to support healthy, connected communities.

Bravo! Encore! The Edinburgh Reporter applauds that.
