

Making it easy to grow flowers for the bees

HONEY COMPANY WILL HELP YOU FEED THE BEES

Kinross based Webster Honey has launched an affordable Wild Flower Seed Bomb to help provide wild flowers for bees.

Bees continue to decline with recent figures revealing that 97% of natural bee habitat has been lost in the UK since WW2.

The Seed Bombs, at £3.95 each, or £13.50 for four can help restore lost wildflower habitat and make an important contribution to the biodiversity of Scotland.

Transforming gardening and making growing flowers a really fun exercise for kids, the bombs are made from a biodegradable shell.

Simply shake, soak, and then throw on to bare soil. Over time, the shell will disappear, and wildflowers will grow!

A great gift for Christmas too!
