

Police hunt man who exposed himself on Waverley bound train

Police are hunting a man who exposed himself to a woman on board a train whilst travelling between Greenfaulds in North Lanarkshire and Edinburgh Waverley.

The man who was reported to have indecently touched himself left the train at Polmont railway station near Falkirk.

The incident happened at 6.35pm on Friday, November 29.

British Transport Police believe the suspect is around 5ft 10in and in his late 20s.

He had short dirty blonde hair and a beard that was either dirty blonde or ginger.

He was also wearing a green hooded top with white writing on the right sleeve, green cargo trousers, and was carrying a grey holdall.

Anyone with information should contact BTP by texting 61016 or by calling 0800 40 50 40.

In both cases, quote reference number 591 of 29/11/19.

Alternatively, call Crimestoppers anonymously on 0800 555 111.