

North Edinburgh throws a VE Day Party

Residents in Drylaw House Gardens got together to hold a socially distanced tea party to mark VE Day.

The event was organised by DJ Edinburgh, Jim Henderson, as part of the many events he has organised in the street and also online during the coronavirus lockdown. He has been keeping spirits up by playing music for his neighbours, either from his kitchen online or sometimes from his garden.

Locals had put up bunting and other decorations and baked cakes and made sandwiches for today – some even danced in their garden as Jim played music from the 1940's.
