

Edinburgh Gin team up with Mimi's Bakehouse for the perfect Afternoon G&Tea

Edinburgh Gin has a new flavour – Gooseberry and Elderflower gin – which they think is the perfect addition to afternoon tea. So they have joined forces with Mimi's Bakehouse and are offering a summer combination delivered to you throughout July.

From today Friday 26 June 2020, for four weekends, if you live in Edinburgh or Glasgow you will be able to order the exclusive Afternoon G&Tea from Mimi's Bakehouse, which will include a 70cl bottle of Edinburgh Gin's newest addition to its award-winning flavour range.

The "Mimi's Bakehouse x Edinburgh Gin Afternoon G&Tea" contains six mini traybakes, two mini elderflower cupcakes and two, freshly baked, plain scones, with Rodda's Cornish clotted cream – plus homemade gooseberry jam, giving a zesty kick to the spread*.

The tea is complete with a bottle of Edinburgh Gin's Gooseberry and Elderflower gin. Bottled at 40% ABV, the delightfully tangy expression boasts flavours of tart gooseberries and sweet elderflower, giving it a subtly tangy taste, with a delicate, honeyed finish. It's perfect paired with a light tonic and garnished with fresh mint or used as a base for cocktails – making it the ultimate summer picnic pour.

The “Mimi’s Bakehouse x Edinburgh Gin Afternoon G&Tea” costs £50, including delivery, and is available to order via the Mimi’s website. Orders open 12pm Friday 26th June for delivery on Friday 3rd July.

To toast the special partnership, and the official start of summer, Edinburgh Gin will also be giving two copa glasses to the first 100 orders of their Afternoon G&Tea.

Neil Boyd, UK Managing Director of Ian Macleod Distillers, said: “Edinburgh Gin is delighted to be collaborating with another Edinburgh great, Mimi’s Bakehouse, to give people an afternoon cream tea experience unlike any other.

“The great British summer is a time for warm afternoons spent with friends, in the park or in our gardens and this partnership is sure to make that experience feel extra special.

“Our Gooseberry and Elderflower gin is the perfect accompaniment to an afternoon cream tea – refreshingly zesty, yet sweet, and perfect in an ice-cold G&T.”

Michelle Phillips, owner of Mimi’s Bakehouse, said: “We are delighted to partner with Edinburgh Gin, another well-loved company with origins in Edinburgh, to bring people a delicious and memorable experience.

“We have had a lot of fun developing bespoke baking to pair with Edinburgh Gin’s latest offering – including elderflower cupcakes and homemade gooseberry jam!”
