

Edinburgh International Book Festival 2020 – today's programme

The Edinburgh International Book Festival is going full strength, to Keep the Conversation Going, although nobody is anywhere near Charlotte Square Garden.

Instead there are two studios set up in the city centre and everything is first being live streamed and then recorded to YouTube for you to watch again at your leisure.

If you have seen nothing over the weekend then you have already missed yourself as Hilary Mantel and Maggie O'Farrell have already appeared. There was a session with Rutger Berman and one with Val McDermid talking to Dame Joan Bakewell. Access all the content from the weekend here

So settle in and get ready for today.

Programme for today: Monday 17 August

9:30am Drawalong with Nick Sharratt (Facebook @edbookfest)

10:00am A New Kind of Superhero with Samantha Baines

To watch this event – click here

11:30am Stuart Cosgrove: The Soul Of Muhammad Ali

To watch this event – click here

1:00pm Natalie Diaz & Ellen van Neerven: Voices of Indigenous Resistance

To watch this event – click here

2:30pm Michele Hutchison & Marieke Lucas Rijneveld: Reap What You Sow

To watch this event – click here

4:00pm Jenny Offill: Storm Warning

To watch this event – click here

5:30pm Linn Ullmann: Portrait of a Family

To watch this event – click here

7:00pm Ian Rankin: A Rebus for the Dark Times

To watch this event – click here

8:30pm Roger Robinson: 'Ordinary Poems Won't Change the World'

To watch this event – click here

