

Terminal V Connect – coming to a stream near you on Saturday

TERMINAL V CONNECT is a multi-platform streaming channel with a festival background.

This Saturday the launch event with Patrick Topping headlining with electronic music blasting out from Calton Hill will be broadcast. We are told that the day when the recording was made ended with a gorgeous sunset behind the decks, and that after dark the laser light show filled the sky.

The two hour long show featuring Topping's set will be broadcast at 8pm on 8 August 2020 – the same time Topping was due to make his debut with a 5000 capacity event, now postponed until the end of the year.

TERMINAL V CONNECT is a mixture of cutting edge platforms, ranging from stunning locations like Edinburgh, home streams, XR augmented reality streams pushing new high-end XR technology and next level production.

The best international acts will be brought to audiences in a virtual and vital way. It is the sort of high impact offering that Terminal V have become known for in recent years since their beginnings in 2017, with their festivals and raves always selling out.

This launch also follows numerous popular Terminal V Lockdown streams with the likes of Maceo Plex, Kink, Luigi Madonna and Rebuke who have all kept people dancing in the safety of their own homes while raising funds for charity.

The full two hours will be broadcast via Beatport, Terminal V and Patrick Toppings social channels on Saturday August 8th.

Patrick attended university in Edinburgh and has lots of history with the city. He had a capacity full stage at Terminal V festival Easter 2019 and later this year will arrive in Edinburgh for his special Trick all-nighter.

It was originally scheduled in August this year before the pandemic hit but has now moved to 19 December 2020. It is set to be a spectacular affair with a giant line up that will keep you dancing from dusk till dawn with Floorplan, Mella Dee, Cynthia, Elliott Adamson, Ewan McVicar and Reinier Zonneveld.

In the meantime, this is a taster of what to expect when he makes his big return.
