Lottoland competes against The National Lottery with Lotto x5

There's a new way of playing the lottery with Lottoland as an alternative to The National Lottery. Lottoland's Lotto 5 is an exciting online betting game with top jackpots of $1 million.

Betting is of course all about luck. And if you wish to try your luck today, the newest platform is Lottoland.

Lottoland offers a wide variety of interesting games for you to play and have a chance of winning the big jackpot.

Lotto, is one of the four games in The National Lottery. It is operated as a franchise granted by the National Lottery Commission. Set up originally in 1994, it is operated by the Camelot Group. There are other games including Thunderball, Lotto Hotpicks and Euromillions played across the whole of Europe. Most people who play buy a ticket at one of the many retail outlets where they are on offer.

Lottoland is different. It is an online UK website that offers a range of international lotteries, including Lotto x5, for players to try their hand at.

Although both of these lotteries are based on a similar concept, there are differences in the number of bets which can be placed per ticket, the number of tickets anyone can purchase, and the number of times these lotteries are played each week.

What's new?

You can buy a subscription style bet from Lottoland if you have played it once and just want to place this bet every time
