

Staycation Scotland will find you somewhere to have a break

FIND HOLIDAY INSPIRATION CLOSE TO HOME WITH STAYCATION SCOTLAND'S NEW VENTURE

You might be feeling just a wee bit reluctant to book a holiday abroad right now, so taking a break closer to home has never seemed more attractive. This is an inspirational new venture which highlights the best of Scottish hospitality.

Jumping on the trend towards holidays within Scotland, St. Andrews-based entrepreneur Rosemary McLennan has launched Staycation Scotland, a booking site featuring four and five star accommodation and hospitality brands across a number of specialist areas including heritage and history, spa and wellness, adventure and city breaks, accommodation as well as arts and culture.

Rosemary says she realised during lockdown that Scots – as well as visitors to Scotland – were longing for inspiration for their next trip.

“It was clear that many travellers would be staying closer to home, so we set out to provide a wealth of ideas, destinations and attractions throughout Scotland, all in one easy to use website,” she says.

“ Whether it’s a bustling city break, the peace and solitude of the countryside or a heritage day out, Staycation Scotland has bags of inspiration for a holiday in Scotland.

“The website features a range of places to dine, stay, relax and explore across Scotland. From luxury lodges to iconic hotels and artisan restaurants to heritage days out, we want to provide inspiration of where to visit when you’re north of the border.”

Each listing includes images, a detailed description of what’s on offer, a location map, contact details and special offers. Users are encouraged to click through to the attraction’s own website to make a booking. Staycation Scotland will feature exclusive special offers available only when mentioning Staycation Scotland.

Sign up to the site to receive a monthly newsletter featuring a range of special offers available only through Staycation Scotland, plus news of its ever-expanding collection of places to stay, wine and dine.
