

Edinburgh Delivers – Aizle

In light of the new restrictions announced by The Scottish Government this week, restaurants and pubs in Edinburgh will be closed from Friday 9 October at 6pm.

We are highlighting some of the businesses which you can patronise by enjoying their food at home. If you have an Edinburgh business and would like to be featured here then get in touch. editor@theedinburghreporter.co.uk

Stuart Ralston's first restaurant, Aizle is one of Edinburgh's most popular.

Aizle gained huge acclaim as the first restaurant in Edinburgh to offer a surprise tasting menu. Diners are privy to only a list of local, seasonal ingredients which feature in their six-course dinner.

Aizle will be launching a home delivery and collection service on Saturday 10 October 2020. The four course menu that has been designed to finish at home is priced at £70 for two people. Orders will be delivered between 2 – 5pm on the customers chosen day. All collection orders are to be collected at its sister restaurant, Noto.
