Lower league club are not required to test unless they are playing a top-flight side and an SPFL spokesman has confirmed that the player and another who was in close contact are self-isolating.

The rest of the squad has tested negative.

The SPFL will continue to monitor the situation and will remain in daily contact with officials at the Angus club.

Jack Ross's men face Paul Hartley's Cove Rangers on Saturday before travelling to Forfar.

Hibs will be without a number of players dur to the international call-ups.
