

Paul Johnston's Inks – commission your own unique art

With a background as an architect, Paul portrays the Edinburgh building landscape in a natural and relaxed style. He clearly shows an appreciation of the buildings in his art.

Focusing on proportion and subtle colours, he produces drawings of doors, architraves and any unusual aspects of the formal Edinburgh landscape.

A real creative, he just loves to draw and will take on any challenge, no matter how quirky or strange. He holds a number of drawings in stock but he is happy to accept commissions too.

All are produced on high quality paper and provided in a glass frame. Each and every drawing is never copied so they are all unique and original.
