

Behind the scenes at St James Quarter

A new video will take you behind the scenes at the newest retail and leisure destination in Edinburgh. St James Quarter will open on 24 June with shops, restaurants and bars.

Watch this short teaser to have a look at the new development which promises to change the city centre with a new destination for evenings and weekends.

St James Quarter aerial view courtesy of the developer
And if you want to learn more the first 20 minute episode of Behind the Quarter embedded below features Martin Perry who is Director of Development, Nick Peel, Managing Director and Rochelle Burgess, Marketing Director at St James Quarter. The three key people behind the development discuss the journey so far from concept to construction with details of the brands which will be taking up shop space. The new lifestyle district will change the cityscape and the trio in charge of the new shopping centre which is more than a shopping centre offer their thoughts on how it will change and enhance Edinburgh.

St James Quarter PHOTO ©2020 The Edinburgh Reporter