

Nairn's join Lidl's Scottish Larder line up

Lidl have a new line up of goodies to tempt you and the latest name to join the fold is Nairn's with their oatcakes and biscuits, some of which are going on sale for the first time.

The range will include the new Oat Biscuits in a range of flavours including two which are only available at Lidl – Dark Chocolate & Mint and Salted Caramel.

All of the Peffermill products are priced from 99p upwards. Lidl is championing the best in Scottish food and drink from over 30 top producers.

Nairn's National Account Controller, Ken Cameron said: "As an independently-owned bakery, it's important for us to continually innovate and develop our range and attract new people into the brand. It's fantastic to be bringing both our traditional and more unusual recipe combinations to Lidl shoppers.

"Things have changed since 1896, but as we continue to grow and bring new and exciting products to market, we still remain true to our philosophy of making delicious products that are simple, natural and wholesome."

Founded in 1896, Nairn's have grown from humble beginnings as a local bakery in Strathaven to become one of Scotland's top biscuit masters with a diverse and ever-growing range of sweet and savoury products ranging from the classic Cheese Oatcake to the punchy Peri Peri Oatcake.

With two sites in Scotland's capital city, Nairn's Peffermill bakery alone makes an impressive 2 million biscuits every single day – enough to cover the entire pitch at Murrayfield Stadium.
