

Next stage of Trams to Newhaven leads to Picardy Place diversions

The Tram to Newhaven project is progressing and now the roundabout at Picardy Place has become the focus of the latest work.

It is here from spring 2023 that there will be a new interchange for Edinburgh Trams and Lothian Buses. While pedestrians can access the area at all points during construction, it is an area for vehicles to avoid for now while track laying progresses.

Access from Picardy Place to Broughton Street is not allowed for the time being. The new layout will be in place until May and there are diversion routes signposted for all vehicles travelling from London Road to Picardy Place.

Lothian Buses have details of their diversion routes on their website.
