

George Campbell Orthodontist in Glasgow

Adult orthodontic treatment is on the rise as more individuals opt to have their teeth straightened. There are several alternatives offered by specialists like George Campbell orthodontist in Glasgow, who deliver discreet orthodontic care that many people believe is better at helping them achieve the appearance they desire for their teeth without the braces being noticeable. If you live in Glasgow and require a skilled and experienced specialist like George Campbell, we strongly encourage you to get in touch today.

Dr. George Campbell, who originates from Glasgow, has a strong educational background in dentistry and orthodontics and has taken many different paths in the profession. After graduating from Edinburgh University, he spent a brief amount of time serving in the British Army before returning to Glasgow to pursue graduate studies. During this period, he completed his fellowship at the Royal College of Surgeons with positions in oral and maxillofacial surgery.

Photo by Enis Yavuz on Unsplash

After completing his postgraduate training in London, George stayed on to work as the Registrar in Orthodontics at Guy's Hospital. During his MOrth (Membership in Orthodontics), he worked as a consultant at a hospital near London to gain crucial working experience and contacts that would aid him in future years. After graduating from MOrth, George moved back to Scotland and started an orthodontic practice in East Kilbride in 1999. As a result of the success of the East Kilbride office, George opened six more offices around Scotland. These practices are based in:

- Hamilton
- Jordanhill
- Queen's Park
- Greenock
- Kilmarnock

Dr. Campbell enjoys empowering others to make smart decisions about orthodontics. He is gratified when he is able to assist others in choosing their careers. In addition to offering assistance to 11 successful orthodontic therapists, he is pleased to offer training to registrars who wish to become orthodontists at Guy's Hospital in London, as well as new programmes for people in the South East and London.

George is active in the field of orthodontics as a member of various societies, including the World Federation of Orthodontists and the British and European Orthodontic Societies. In addition to being an international member of the American Orthodontists Society, he attends yearly retreats to learn more about his profession. He has been honoured for his clinical and educational expertise, and he is listed in the Who's Who of Dentistry. His passion for academics has led him to become an examiner for the Royal College of Surgeons in Edinburgh.

What treatment options can George Campbell orthodontist provide?

Modern orthodontics has evolved significantly over the years, and it no longer has the reputation of being about wearing unpleasant metal in your mouth. There are a number of different kinds of braces to choose from in contemporary orthodontics that are both small and comfortable to wear while straightening your teeth as well as being even more efficient. You will be able to continue with your regular daily activities without noticing a difference with a lot of experience in this field, George Campbell orthodontist will help you determine the right type of braces for your lifestyle.