

Join the queue for a Happy St Patrick's Day

Some people desperate to celebrate the Irish patron saint queued for four hours and longer to get into the Three Sisters in the Cowgate.

The non stop party atmosphere includes a special appearance from Jedward on Friday...doors opened at 8am and there were people still in the queue waiting to get in and join the fun.

All photos courtesy of Alan Simpson Photography.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

St Patrick's day revellers started queuing early to get into The Three Sisters pub in Edinburgh's Grassmarket with some having been in the queue for 4 hours and were still waiting to get in.

