Scotland's summer weather is expected to boost the attendance at Musselburgh's popular Friday night meeting on 23 June.

The Construction & Property Recruitment Friday 90's Race Night kickstarts the weekend for many racegoers who flock to the East Lothian track.

And with its 90's theme and post racing After Party hosted by Forth One's leading presenter Boogie in the Morning, it's a big draw for racing fans keen to let their hair down and make the most of the summer sun.

The 5-star racing venue is making it easier for guests to get to and from Edinburgh city centre with ticketed bus services, while those taking the train can make use of a courtesy bus service from Wallyford and Newcraighall stations.

To further whet the appetite, some of Scotland's leading street food vendors are on-site, including Slum Dog, Dog n Bon and Bonnie Burrito, while the racecourse's own Pinkies Deli offers dishes which appeal to all.

Musselburgh Racecourse commercial manager, Aisling Johnston, said: "With seven thrilling Flat races, followed by an exciting 90's After Party, where else is better to make the most of these fantastic summer evenings we've been enjoying.

"Dressing up is not essential but we hope many will throw on their favourite 90's outfit and if race goers are too young to have experienced the 90's first time around, now is their chance to see what all the fuss was about."
