Meerkats to leave the zoo for pastures new

Some of the meerkats from Edinburgh Zoo are moving to the Edinburgh Children's Hospital where they will live in an outdoor classroom. This will also children patients to learn about conservation first hand. The innovative partnership between Edinburgh Children's Hospital Charity (EHC), NHS Lothian and The Royal Zoological Society of Scotland's (RZSS) means that as well as the weekly educational activities which are conducted in the hospital, the meerkats will live there providing a living exhibit to learn from.

Roslyn Neely, CEO of EHC, said: "Some children are too unwell or have been in hospital for so long that they don't have the opportunity to engage with the outdoors, or interact with animals.

"Many of the children who visit the hospital care passionately about nature and the environment. Our programme will allow them to learn from experts while getting up close to the best teachers of all – the meerkats themselves.

"The wellbeing benefits of engaging with animals and using nature in the healing process are well documented, and there's great excitement within the hospital in anticipation of our furry friends arriving."

David Field, chief executive of the Royal Zoological Society of Scotland, said, "Our conservation education programme has already been a great success and now we are taking this incredible next step by creating the only meerkat enclosure at a children's hospital outside of Australia, making this a first in the UK and Europe.

"Being close to nature and animals can have a tremendous impact on people's mental and physical health and wellbeing. We also know that people and communities are more likely to help protect nature when they have had the opportunity to connect with our natural world.

"We are really looking forward to bringing a group of meerkats to live at the hospital next year and seeing the impact this will have for the children and their families."

Allister Short, Service Director, Women's and Children's, NHS Lothian, said: "We are really excited about this innovative programme coming to the RHCYP. Meerkats have been introduced into many children's hospitals in Australia and this unique concept encourages children to learn and be inspired, particularly when they're in hospital for long periods of time.

"We want to brighten up our patients' days in an educational way and we know that the meerkats will be an exciting addition to the RHCYP."

The meerkats will probably move in next year.

Genesis

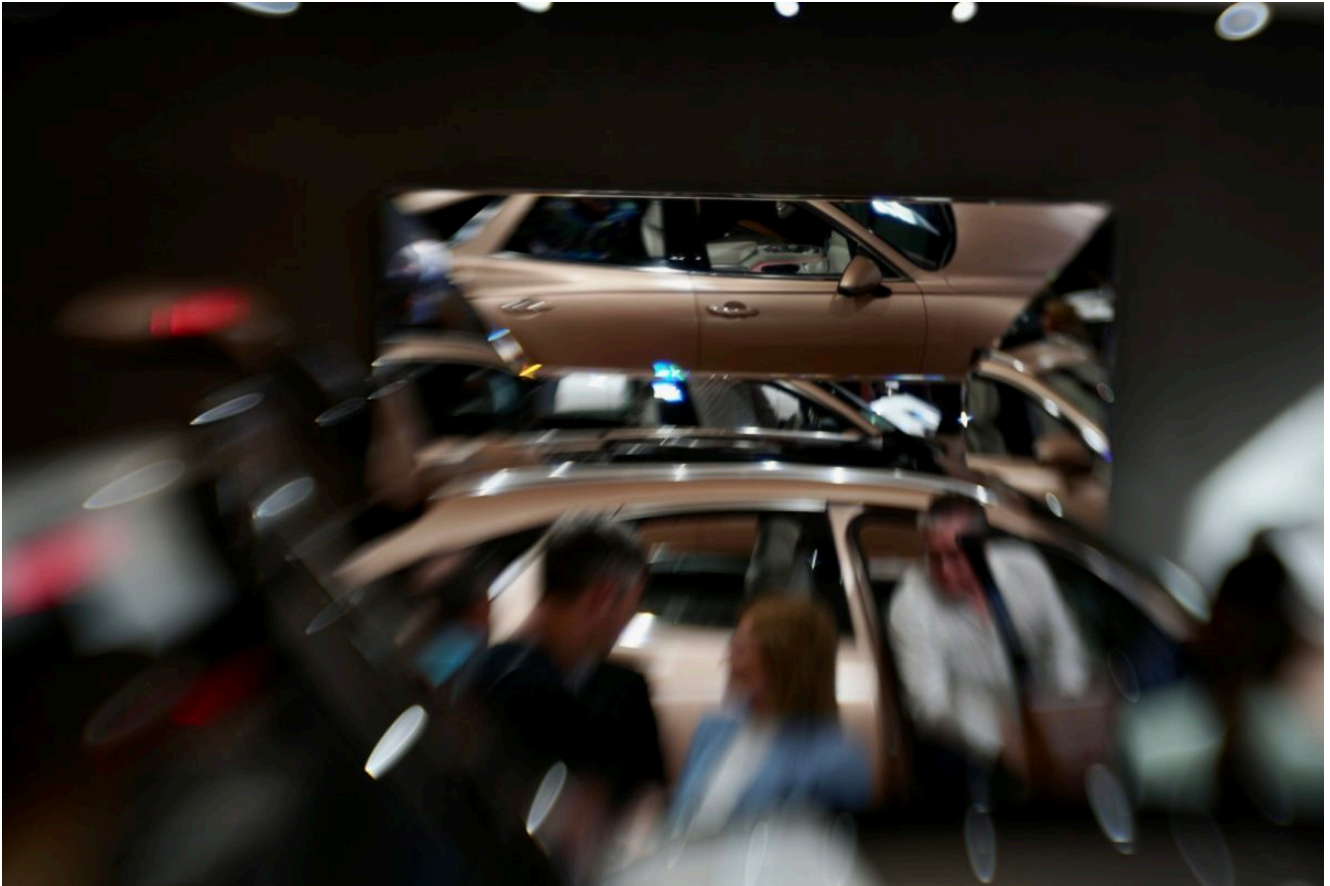

The luxury car brand Genesis has so far sold only one privately owned car in Edinburgh that we know about, but they are hoping for many more after opening a studio on Multrees Walk on Tuesday evening. This is where you can decide every detail of your latest motor with some Korean Tea and shortbread.

There are only two models in the showroom but around a dozen for potential buyers to see nearby.

The Korean luxury brand is sponsoring the Genesis Scottish Open for the second year in a row.

The Genesis Scottish Open is being played at North Berwick from 12 to 16 July and of course you can get there easily by train. The Open will feature the best players from the DP World Tour and the PGA Tour. Defending champion Xander Schauffele, Scottie Scheffler, Justin Thomas, Matt Fitzpatrick, and Justin Rose have already confirmed their attendance.

The King's Men

The Royal Company of Archers competed in The Edinburgh Arrow, displaying their skills as The King's Bodyguard in Scotland

By PHYLIS STEPHEN

EDINBURGH USUALLY hosts events during Royal Week in early July, but this year the Royal Honours of Scotland will be presented to His Majesty King Charles III and Her Majesty Queen Camilla during their first visit to Scotland since the Coronation. Thousands are expected to line the Royal Mile on 5 July.

The Honours of Scotland consist of the Crown, the Sceptre and the new Elizabeth Sword crafted in memory of the late Queen. The State Sword is too fragile for public use, so a new one has been made. The Stone of Destiny will also be in St Giles' for the service which will be broadcast live on TV.

The Royal Company of Archers are the Sovereign's Bodyguard in Scotland and each year are invited by the Lord Provost to compete for the Edinburgh Arrow on Bruntsfield Links. Our photo shows archer Ian Davie taking his turn.

Alan Simpson, OBE, DL, is a captain in The Royal Company. He said: "The Edinburgh Arrow was won by Colonel Charlie Wallace which was very satisfactory as he is the Secretary who does all the work. He was central in organising all the parades in September last year for the Queen's funeral, then for the Coronation and he has been working flat out on the parades to welcome His Majesty to Holyrood Palace and to St Giles as well.

"Everybody was delighted that he won. The person who wins the most points wins the arrow and Charlie "hit the clout" twice - which is no mean feat from 180 yards."

In total during Royal Week there will be around 250 archers on parade.
